

All just twelve and thirteen, very few people did we know just tiny little seventh graders,
When we all met Liv Rotondo.

It did not take long to realize, what great friends we would be.
Nobody could have guess though,
We would become such a loving family.

A loving laughing LIV,
everybody's best friend,
was there ever a happier person?
no one could contend.

A heart so big and full of care, kindness, and joy
so full of life,
and so fun to annoy.

So smart and so beautiful,
so energetic and so sweet,
a Mountie and a Wildcat, there was nobody that she would mistreat.

Liv has left us too soon, she is now throwing her parties in the sky, while we are left down here just wondering why.

A gorgeous promising sunflower, sure to grow grow and grow.
Take from those she loved it was far too early for her to go.

As she leaves this party first,
(which she has never done),
She takes with her a piece of all of us pieces of our hearts taken up to the sun.

She would not want us down, she would not want us to be sad.
She would like us to be strong, to come together and be glad.

In her twenty years she left us with so much, stories, jokes, laughs, and pleasure no one will forget every memory we will treasure.

This is what Liv would want,
and this mindset will take time.
We will get through this together, this family is strong and one of a kind.

As each day passes we will learn to cope, and we know she'll be watching us every day.
Carefully guiding us to happiness, forcing us to have a party on the 17th of May.

We will stay strong and keep our chins up, our best effort we will give,
Loving each day like she did,
we will live for Liv.
